

SPECIAL AGENTS ARE VERY ACTIVE

Three Mysterious Men Made Inquiries Concerning Senator Carmack's Address.

WITNESS BENNING'S IS TO BE CROSS EXAMINED

Swore He Saw Carmack Revolving Cylinder of a Gun, Which Will Not Revolve—Governor Patterson Will Not Be Put Back on Stand.

NASHVILLE, TENN., March 3.—After a strenuous recess day in the Cooper-Shart trial for the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, only two facts developed. One was that J. A. Benning, the mysterious witness for the defense, who claimed he saw Senator Carmack revolving the cylinder of a gun which will not revolve, with the further cross-examination by the State. The other was the feverish activity of the special agents or secret police of the prosecution. It developed that this activity was due to Attorney-General McCall's belief that he had discovered a clue to the identity of one of the three mysterious men who would make valuable witnesses for the prosecution.

On the day of Carmack's death—early in the day—three men visited the office of the attorney for the defense, which Senator Carmack was editor. Each of these men asked at the business office if the clerk could give him Mr. Carmack's address, and if he knew about what time the Senator went home each day. The men called in the morning, or before noon. The clerk in the counting room did not know where Carmack lived, but after the second inquiry they secured the information, and when the third man appeared after 1 P. M. they gave him the address.

Search for Mysterious Men. "Our clue is very vague," said Attorney-General McCall to-night, "and I doubt if we will be able to use the information. We know that the inquiries were made, and can prove this by Tennessee employees, but unless we can identify the men who made them and then further connect them directly with a conspiracy to murder Senator Carmack, under our laws we could not offer the testimony—even of the Tennessee employees. We are sparing no pains to identify the men, however, despite the apparent hopelessness of the task. Of course, even if we identify the men they will deny the charge, and we might not be able to connect them with the defendants." Counsel for defense were not less active.

Old and new witnesses visited their offices all day and a number of new subpoenas were issued on their behalf.

Attorneys Disagree. It became generally known to-day that counsel for the prosecution would not cross-examine either Governor M. Patterson or Adjutant-General Tuley Brown. At the same time, it became just as well known that the attorneys for the State disagreed as to the wisdom of this proceeding. At least two of the attorneys for the prosecution are strong political enemies of the chief executive. These favored grilling the Governor.

The other, however, objected for two reasons. First, they considered that the Governor's testimony simply corroborated that of other witnesses as to the famous conference of the United States. These conferences, the State admitted, took place. Secondly, of the twelve jurors, nine are Patterson supporters, and it was not deemed advisable to attack the Governor on this account.

PRESIDENT'S SALARY

Will Be $75,000 Per Annum and He Pays Traveling Expenses.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—The salary of the President of the United States has been definitely fixed at $75,000 per annum without any additional allowances for traveling expenses. The bill was passed by the House during the day and night by the conference on the legislative, executive and judicial bill, appropriation bill, and the other bills. The House approved the bill, originally the Senate inserted an amendment in the legislative bill giving the President a salary of $100,000. The House reduced the amount to $75,000, and the conference on that measure resulted in the retention of the House figures. Anticipating the possibility of this conclusion with reference to the salary, the Senate inserted in the sundry civil bill a provision appropriating $25,000 for the payment of the President's traveling expenses. Late to-night the Senate also passed this amendment, thus leaving a flat salary of $75,000 for the President, out of which he must pay his own way when traveling. The Senate lost all of its other amendments for increase of salaries for high officials, such as the Vice-President, the Speaker of the House, the Supreme Court judges, etc.

NOT KNOWN HERE

Miss Florence Kinrade Was Not Solicited at Local Church.

OTTAWA, ONT., March 3.—Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa and other Canadian sheets to-night publish Virginia special reports regarding Florence Kinrade's stay in Virginia. A Hamilton dispatch to-night says these "Friends of Florence Kinrade" say there was no foundation for dispatches in the morning papers intimating that she never sang in a church in Virginia.

"There is little romance in connection with her engagement by a Manchester Presbyterian Church, where she was solicited, early last year. She sang at a concert in Cleveland. The choir leader of Richmond was present and greatly impressed with her voice, was introduced and when the position of leading soprano in the Richmond church became vacant a week later he wrote offering her the position. She began her engagement on Sunday, April 16, 1908. Richmond papers had many appreciative notices and these were copied in Hamilton.

"Being indisposed, she had two months' leave of absence and the position in the Manchester church is still open for her."

The Virginia messages still hint at her having sung either in a theatre or at some moving picture shows there, but this seems to be denied at Hamilton. The House of Representatives will be in session at Hamilton, but nothing very sensational is looked for. The Kinrade party have gone to Toronto, and as Florence Kinrade is not well enough to testify yet there will probably be an adjournment of the inquest.

The statement that Miss Kinrade sang in the choir of the Presbyterian Church, of Manchester, was positively denied by the House of Representatives last night. Musical organizations and choir leaders, both of Richmond and Manchester, deny any knowledge of her.

In an account sent out from Norfolk yesterday it was stated that she sang in the Orpheum Theatre, Portsmouth, under the name of Mildred Dale. It was further stated that she came to Norfolk about a year ago, and was a guest at the Atlantic Hotel, Virginia Beach.

COPYRIGHT LAWS

Bill Giving Protection to "Canned" Music Passes Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—Both houses of Congress to-day passed a bill to amend and consolidate the copyright laws. Bills upon this subject have been before the Senate and House for a number of years, but differences of opinion over the protection to be given composers of music, especially when their works were reproduced by mechanical device, prevented the enactment of a law. Early to-day the bill was introduced in the Senate, and to-night it was introduced in the House by Mr. Currier, and to-night this bill was introduced in the Senate and immediately passed. There was no discussion in the Senate, and very little in the House.

The "canned music" provision is that the author of a musical composition shall receive 2 cents per disc or roll when manufactured for reproduction, but it is provided that no monopoly may be created. The bill enacted is a complete revision of all of the copyright laws.

The term of the extension of copyrights is increased from fourteen years as at present to twenty-eight years, giving the author fifty-six years in all instead of forty-two, and this addition is made applicable to existing as well as to future copyright. The law is also made uniform on all works subject to copyright, including books, music, art, etc. The manufacturing clause of the present law is modified by the omission of books in foreign languages. The advantage to printers of the old provision was recognized as very small, and not to be compared with the desirability of guarding our foreign trade in copyright materials, which now amounts to about $2,000,000 a year. It is believed that this feature of the bill will be favorably received abroad.

The bill will be favorable to the giving of a period of sixty days in which to make his publishing arrangements in America without endangering his copyright. It is also believed that the security of composers and encyclopedists will be improved. The music provision is a compromise, and while it is intended to protect the public against monopoly, provision is made for compensating the author. The attachment of the President's signature will make a law of the bill.

WILL "MAKE GOOD"

Taft Tells Yale Men He Feels It in His Bones.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—"I feel it in my bones," declared President-Elect Taft to-night in addressing about 700 Yale alumni at the annual dinner of the Yale Alumni Association at the Hotel Hamilton. "I am able to stand just criticism and to improve by it and not to 'care a darn' for unjust criticism."

"The spirit of democracy," he said, "is the spirit of every man doing his best, and if he does this, he has the support of every other Yale man. That is all I ask for."

He was greeted with loud shouts of "Taft" when he had been there for many Yale men before him who would have been able to fill with more credit than himself the office upon which he is about to enter.

Many circumstances have worked together to place me where I am," he said.

"There is much luck in the coming of opportunities to men. I am glad, however, to have drawn a lucky number."

FOREST RESERVATION

Senators Had Much to Say and the Measure Was Doomed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—The Appalachian and White Mountain forest reservation bill was practically finally disposed of soon after the Senate convened at 3:30 o'clock to-night. When the bill was placed before the Senate to-night, Senator Tamm declared that it would take him two or three hours to point out its defects. Senator Flint said that at least two or three hours would be required by him and Senator Dixon added that he would require two or three hours.

It was pointed out that the House has substituted an entirely new bill for the Senate measure. It was thus made evident that the measure was doomed, and no further effort was made to proceed with the passage of the measure.

ARMY OF PEOPLE IN THE CAPITAL

Hosts Gather to Witness Nation's Greatest of All Pageants.

FIFTY THOUSAND TO MARCH IN THE PARADE

Marching Clubs Come from All Directions, and Several Governors, With Their Staffs, Will Be Included—Pennsylvania Avenue Presented Picturesque Scene.

Weather for Inauguration

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—As the night wore on the storm showed no signs of abating, and the precipitation became more and more of rain. Pennsylvania Avenue, down which the inaugural parade will pass, was more than an inch deep in slush at 2:30 A. M. and snow still was falling.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—A vast army of people tramped the streets of the National Capital in a downpour of rain, in eager expectancy of the nation's greatest of all pageants, the Presidential Inauguration. The spirit of celebration is supreme and everything is in complete readiness for the great quadrennial event.

Congress practically cleared its decks, both houses working under high pressure. President Roosevelt and President-Elect Taft to-night slept under the same roof after a strenuous day spent in receiving callers, all the members of the Cabinet resigned, in accordance with custom, and the labors of the inaugural committee were completed.

Hosts Are Gathering

Numberless hosts have gathered here from all parts of the country, awaiting the coming of to-morrow's spectacle, when Mr. Taft will be inducted into the highest office in the gift of the people. The city is in the usual preparation for the great day, which hung overhead during the day and afternoon and later turned into a dreary downpour of rain mixed with snow, the visiting thousands did not allow their ardor to be dampened or their interest in the spirit of the festival lessened by the disagreeable weather.

On account of the dark clouds which overcast the city, it was necessary several hours before the usual time to light government and other official buildings. Pennsylvania Avenue, teeming along its mile and a quarter length from the Capitol to the Treasury, was picturesque. The rain-bathed asphalt, reflected in its glistening surface, long golden shadows from the festooned arches above.

It is believed that Mr. Taft and Mrs. Sherman to-morrow will be inducted into office according to the program, the finishing touches in the decorative scheme of the inaugural ceremony of honor were finished, and the final rehearsal of the orchestra for the inaugural ball at the Pension Office Building was held. Pennsylvania Avenue will be cleared of all vehicles, and the inaugural procession will start at 10 o'clock by an order issued by the Superintendent of Police to-day.

City Is Congested

The rush of visitors from all parts of the country continued unabated to-day, and the city is in the usual preparation for the great day. It is estimated that fully 200,000 people are already here, and each incoming train and boat adds its quota to the visiting throngs.

Trains from all points are being run at intervals of a few minutes in order to accommodate the crowds and railroad officials estimate that upwards of 60,000 persons arrived here to-day by rail up to midnight. The morning and boarding houses have been taxed to their utmost to accommodate the visitors.

The time-honored inaugural parade, which a greater number will be enabled to witness, is claiming more interest than the inauguration ceremony itself.

The latest estimate of the number of men who will march is placed at 50,000, not the least of which will be the Governors of fourteen States, each accompanied by his staff. Among the State executives already here are Governors Wilson of Kentucky; Carroll of Iowa; Hughes of New York; Pruett of Vermont; Harmon of Ohio; Hadley of Missouri; Pennycuik of Delaware; Quay of New Hampshire; Sanders of Louisiana; Stuart of Pennsylvania; Noel of Mississippi; Dineen of Illinois; Fernald, of Maine.

Having encircled the globe with the battleship fleet, 3,000 bluejackets are here to take part in the parade. Marching clubs are arriving from every direction, and they will form a very conspicuous feature of the parade. Probably the largest of these delegations will be composed of the one thousand members of the New York County Republican Club, which will have the distinction of escorting the retiring President to the station before marching in line in the inaugural parade. Mr. Roosevelt will walk to the station in true Democratic style, and will occupy a modest drawing room during the trip to New York.

Program for To-Day.

The program for the day provides that the President and President-elect and the Vice-President and Vice-President-elect, accompanied by the joint committee of Congress, will proceed from the White House to the Capitol in carriages at 10 A. M. They will be followed in carriages by members of the Cabinet, the Secretary to the President, and the President's aides.

Arriving at the Capitol at 10:20, the President and President-elect will be escorted to the President's private room in the Senate, and the Vice-President and Vice-President-elect to the Vice-President's room, also on the Senate side, to await the inaugural ceremonies. Promptly at noon, President-Elect Sherman will take the oath of office in the Senate chamber, and then address that body, whereupon the Senate will organize. The oath of
